St. Petersburg, Russia, Dec. 6.—A line of large freight and passenger steamers is to start after the New Year from Odessa for New York. The scheme is on a large scale, as it will receive a good part of the government subsidy formerly given to the Russian volunteed fleet, called here the "Patriotic fleet," which used to run soley to the far east through the Red Sea and China. Since Japan got the upper hand much of this business has been steadily turning to North and steadily turning to North and South America.

The new tariff conditions are expected to put the line in a favorable condition as regards importing Russian produce into the United States. It will also get all the Armenian, Caucasian and southern emigration from this country. gentina Eases Wheat; Provisions Weak.

Chicago, Ill. Dec. 6.—More settled harvest weather in Argentina made the wheat market today case off. The opening was a shade to 165% lower with a further substantial decline. Closing figures were firm at the same figures to 1 lower than last night.

Corn sagged on account of slowness of speculative demand. Prices started, 1 down to 120 14 up and then gradually went under last night's level all

The close was steady, 4.8 % to 4.8 lower than last night's close, lower than last night's close, Onts showed weakness from the out-

Although provisions showed a little firmness, owing to the run of hogs in the west being light, the market afterwards gave way in sympathy with corn
